ORDINANCE FOR NEW WATER RATE IS ANTICIPATED

Ohio Water Service Company Expected To Submit Legislation To Council.

Officials of the Ohio Water Service Company are expected to submit a ordinance for a franchise with new water rates for Circleville at the regular meeting of City Council on Wednesday, July 18, or possibly before that date.

The city will likewise possibly prepare an ordinance, it is said, and the two factions will then attempt to get together on a water rate.

In case the rate is agreeable to both parties the battle will not be taken before the Ohio Utilities Commission at Columbus.

At present and for the past five years the Ohio Water Service Company has been operating in the city without a franchise and charging 95 cents per 1,000 gallons of water to the average consumer, said to be the second highest rate in the state of Ohio. Thousands of dollars will be saved consumers of the city if Council acts speedily and properly on the matter and the rate is brought down to a level with other cities in Ohio.

RIVER AGAIN THREATENS TO LEAVE BANKS

Unprecedented Rain of Four Inches Brings Forth Flood Warnings.

With around four inches of rain having fallen since 3:30 a. m. Friday, residents of the Scioto river bottoms have been warned by the state weather observer of a big rise in the waters.

Further rain is expected to send the river out of its channel, flooding the first bottom lands. The rainfall has been unprecedented.

Dr. H. R. Clarke, local weather observer, reported at 10 a. m. Friday, that 3.26 inches of rain showed on the gauge. Since then enough rain has fallen to bring this to the 4-inch mark.

Rain has fallen in large quantities in the upper territory of the river, and this is expected to flood the river lands.

Hargus, Hominy and Darby creeks are on a rampage, and waters of Hargus creek shooting across to the opposite shores of the Scioto.

Up to noon today the rainfall at the government gauge showed three inches and 84-100 of an inch of war precipitation in nine hours. The river began to rise rapidly and had risen two feet up to noon.

CIRCLEVILLE RESIDENTS ATTEND FAMOUS PARTY

Ten residents of Circleville were guests Thursday night at the famous party given by Mrs. Mary E. Lee postmistress of Westerville. O. Those who were guests from Circleville were: Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Anderson, Mayor and Mrs. B. T. Hedges, Senator C. C. Chappellear, Postmaster George Foreman, Harry B. Weaver, C. A. Weldon, Noah Spangler and Barton Walters.

There were more than 500 Republicans, party leaders, office holders and candidates and about 25 prominent Ohio Democrats present. The party was one of a series given by Mrs. Lee each year, since the Harding administration. Harding, Coolidge and Willis have all been guests at her home.

The jollification was in honor of the Republican Glee Club which furnished the evening's entertainment under the direction of Earl Hoernig. The Franklin County Republican Women's Glee Club was there, and presented Mrs. Lee with a guest book.

Central committeemen and county leaders assembled for informal conversation on the lawn at 4 p. m. and at 7 p. m. dinner was served to about 600 guests.

FORMER FEDERAL DRY AGENT GETS TERM IN PRISON

William 'Bush' Heaston Found Guilty of Obtaining Money Falsely.

URBANA, O., July 13.—William 'Bush' Heaston, former federal dry officer, today was under sentence of not less than 15 months in the Ohio penitentiary. The sentence was imposed by Judge E. P. Middleton here following his conviction by a jury last week of obtaining money under false pretenses.

Heaston was alleged to have taken $150 from Elmer Minor as a bond for his arrest on a liquor charge on Dec. 4, 1926.

Heaston's attorney, John C. Hoover, Bellefontaine, gave notice of an appeal on error to the court of appeals, after Judge Middleton had denied a new trial and pronounced sentence. Execution of sentence was deferred and Heaston is out on bond pending appeal.

NEW OIL STATION IS NOW COMPLETED

The Circleville Tire & Repair company has completed the improvements on their N. Court-st. station. They now have a complete oiling and greasing station with the whole of the north side concreted and two greasing pits have been installed. Bowman is survived by his widow, one child, a brother, Pearl, of Stoutsville, and a sister, Mrs. Charles Moore, of Amanda.

URGES DIRECT ELECTION FOR HIGH OFFICE

Senator Norris Refuses Nomination and Fights For His Convictions.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Senator George Norris of Nebraska, who has fought alone so often he is used to it, has turned the ebbing energy of a warrior grown old in battle to another fight which he likewise probably will wage single-handed.

Turning down the presidential nomination of the Farmer-Labor party with one hand, Norris raised the other dramatically today in a campaign for the direct election of president and against what he calls "the power trust."

It is futile, he declared to start a third party.

"There is no way under our system by which the people, who are supposed to be sovereign, can express their choice in a presidential contest," he said.

"They vote for presidential electors, and to run an independent candidate for president or to organize a new political party in a presidential contest, it is necessary to organize and select hundreds of presidential electors from the various states of the Union; and when this difficult and expensive process is performed, the name of the presidential candidate can not appear upon the official ballot."

Turning upon the electric power of inquiry, Norris said it was so powerful that it prevented either party from saying anything in their platforms about it.

"With its sinister and selfish motives, it has invaded the public schools; it has contaminated the colleges and the universities; it has bribed and controlled legislatures and public officials; it has bought seats in the United States Senate; it has attempted to control the minister in the pulpit; it has bribed the public press; it has not forgotten the women's clubs, boy scouts, Kiwanis and Rotary societies; and it has undertaken to blacken the character and question the patriotism of every citizen and of every organization that has dared to interfere with its progress," he said.

Norris declared that "every penny of the money by which it has been able to carry on this wonderful campaign, has been wrung from the people of the United States in exorbitant charges."

"It will contribute from this fund, stolen from the people, sufficient money to permit each of the great political machines to carry on the sham battle while it continues to thrive and grow fat upon special governmental favors," he added.

FANATIC DIES IN HOSPITAL

COLUMBUS, O., July 13.—Joseph Elias, religious fanatic who harridaned himself in a basement here Tuesday and shot two policemen who attempted to capture him, died in a hospital today.

Death was caused by pneumonia contracted when fire departments poured streams of water into the basement to dislodge Elias, hospital attaches said. He was weakened by several bullet wounds, also, it was said.

RAIL HEAD DIES

NEW YORK, July 13.—Robert I. Todd, 58, president of the Terre Haute, Indianapolis and Eastern railroad, and also president of the Indianapolis Traction and Terminal company, died today at the home of his sister, Mrs. William H. Hulick. Heart disease was given as the cause.

SEVEN DIE IN KENTUCKY FOR THEIR CRIMES

Only One of Four White Men and Three Negroes Maintain Innocence.

WESTERN KENTUCKY PENITENTIARY, EDDYVILLE, Ky., July 13.—Four white men and three negroes were executed in the electric chair here early today. The record executions required an elapsed time of one hour and 57 minutes.

Only one of the seven maintained his innocence while three of the white men made confessions just before the current was sent into their bodies.

A last minute effort was made to save the life of Orlando Seymour, 20, of Louisville, who was known as the "dime bandit." He was convicted for killing a Louisville coal dealer in a small holdup.

Attorneys had obtained a writ of habeas corpus against Seymour's execution and this was dismissed. Then they attempted to obtain a stay of execution, pending a hearing on Seymour's sanity. That likewise was refused and the youthful bandit was led to the death chamber.

The other six executed were: Milford Lawson, 35, Corbin, Ky., who killed a man in a feud.

Hascue Dockery, 27, a young mountaineer convicted of killing two women and a man in Harlan-co, Ky.

Charles P. Mittra, 24, St. Louis, who confessed to a Louisville grocer in a holdup.

William Moore, negro, 49, Louisville, who killed his sweetheart with a razor.

James Howard, 24, negro, Boone-co, who stabbed a girl friend.

Clarence McQueen, 38, Cynthia, Ky., who killed another negro allegedly for revenge.

The first man was led to the electric chair at 12:25 a. m., and the seventh man was pronounced dead at 2:22. It was the largest number of persons ever to pay the death penalty at one time in the United States.

The only man who protested that he was innocent of the crime was Milford Lawson, the rangy mountaineer who was convicted as a feud killer.

"I never did anything wrong," he moaned as guards led him from his cell down the narrow away that leads to the death chamber.

Guards had attempted to obtain a confession from him, but he maintained even as he was strapped in the electric chair, that he was innocent.

The white men were executed first, Seymour, Mittra and Dockery making confessions of their guilt.

One of the negroes walked along the death aisle singing a negro spiritual while another sang a familiar southern negro song.

HOPPE AWAITING JUDGES' VERDICT

TOLEDO, O., July 13.—A plea for mercy in the decision on Chas. Hoppe, the last defensive move in the hands of the three common pleas judges of Lucas-co, who will decide whether he goes to the electric chair or to an insane asylum.

The mercy plea was sent to the judges Charles M. Milroy, James Austin, Jr., and James E. Martin, by Hoppe's lawyers late Thursday.

Hoppe, morose, sullen, defiant, counted the hours in the county jail Friday as the time of the decision drew closer.

Two contentions were set forth in the mercy plea, one was that the insanity of Hoppe was proved in his recent trial for the murder of 7-year-old Dorothy Szekawski, and that, as a result, he should be sent to insane asylum.

ATTEND REUNION OF RAINBOW VETS

Circleville was well represented Friday at the Rainbow Division reunion in Columbus. Some of the World war veterans who attended from here were: Captain Charles S. Gorman, Lieutenant Colonel Harry D. Jackson, Captains J. Ryan, John Ryan, Bryce Briggs, Wilbur Craft, Woody Thomas, Packer Miller, Milton Friedman, John Ward and Clifford White.

"Aw, Go Jump in the Ocean!"

That's probably how Miss Elsie Ekengren, pretty Washington, D.C., society girl, dared Morton Hoyt, also of Washington. He did "The 33" Rochambeau" had to retrace its banks to rescue the man who wouldn't take a dare. Miss Ekengren thought it was very brave of Hoyt to jump. Below, the society youth being hauled into a lifeboat by members of the Rochambeau's crew.

Even Dahlia Can Be "Two-Faced" As Man Here Proves

People who are "two-faced" are seldom liked. But with a dahlia, that is different.

C. L. Black, of 457 E. Main-st., who works at the Mid-West Box factory, brought a fine red one to this office and it had two faces and two stems.

In other words, he had the Siamese twins in the dahlia world.

The dahlia is on display at The Herald office if you don't think so.

HEAT MAY HAVE CAUSED PASSING OF AGED WORKER

John Saxon, 81, Stricken While Riding Cultivator On Kingston Farm.

John Saxon, 81, employed on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Young near Kingston, was found in a dying condition at noon Thursday.

Mr. Saxon did not report for dinner, and a search was made. He was cultivating corn, and when found by Mr. Young, he was sitting on a riding cultivator. His body was bent forward and he was in extreme pain. Dr. Russell Lightner, of Kingston, was called, but before the doctor arrived, the aged man had passed away.

His death was due to either the heat or heart trouble.

The deceased has no relatives other than a niece, whose address is unknown.

The funeral services will be held Saturday at 10 a. m. Interment will be made in the Hader-Ludwig cemetery, under the direction of Undertaker Shannon of Kingston.

Reviewer of Show at Palace Pays Tribute to Circleville Stage Star.

Reviewing "The Palace," New York, in "The Billboard," Elias F. Sugarman pays a tribute to a Circleville stage star, Ted Lewis, commenting as follows:

"Ted Lewis, back at the ace house after a long absence, was given a long and loud ovation when first he stuck his high-topped hat through the curtain. The master of song-talking jazz rhythm gave the folks more than half an hour of his own warbling and musical versatility, and unveiled a nine-piece musical unit, called 'His Musical Klowns,' that was on a par with its boss in every respect."

"Lewis also received strong support from Eddie Chester, Eleanor Brooks and Arline Langan. The act was one riot of rhythm, speed and unabating applause. They would not permit him to go off until he did about six numbers of his own. The R U Happy Boy was jockeyed into a curtain speech speech. This act is certainly the apex of vaudeville entertainment."

TRIO OF LOST EXPLORERS ON TRIP LOCATED

Swirling Ice Floes Beginning To Give Up Its Hold On Italia's Crew.

By EUGENE LYONS
United Press Staff Correspondent.

MOSCOW, July 13.—Slowly nosing her thick steel prow through the swirling ice floes that for seven weeks had reared themselves like a prison wall between a score of men and the world outside, the Russian icebreaker Krassin steamed today toward a safe niche in history.

The big ship had aboard seven men brought back from death after the crash of the Polar dirigible Italia. She radioed at noon that she was proceeding to pick up more. She added in a business-like manner that after she had effected rescues of all survivors in her vicinity she would proceed to Advent Bay to re-coal.

MOSCOW, July 13.—Men of the dirigible Italia, lost in the Arctic wastes since May 25 when that craft crashed, were re-united in rescue aboard the Russian icebreaker Krassin today.

The big ice-breaker, Leviathan of the Northern waters—prowed through to rescue Captains Alberto Mariani and Filippo Zappi Wednesday night and last night pushed on to rescue the group headed by Lieutenant A. J. Vigliani.

The craft also picked up the shattered airplane of Erik-Paul Lundberg who sat on the ice in attempts to rescue the Vigliani group. He later was rescued by the icebreaker Krassin.

Not only has the Krassin, according to advices from her Moscow—made the two rescues but she has found three other men stranded in the Arctic wastes.

The identity of these "three" not accurately known but it is believed they are Captain Boye Ludvig Varming, explorer, and Sjef Van Dongen, young Dutch dog-team driver, who like Mariani and Zappi had been given up as dead. They started to the rescue of Mariani, Zappi and Dr. Finn Malmgren—who was found to have perished in the North—and had not been heard from since.

The trio waved excitedly as they saw the Krassin approach but the commanders of the ice breaker, knowing that the Vigliani group was suffering acutely and that their morale was at low ebb, proceeded to the rescue of them first.

VICE-PRESIDENT IS NOT GOING TO PLAY

ATLANTA, Ga., July 13.—Will J. Vereen, of Moultrie, Ga. selected by the Farmer-Labor party this week as its candidate for vice president, did not ever know the party was holding a convention.

Characterizing his nomination as "absurd," Vereen said he could not accept it. He is a cotton textile manufacturer.

NO MARATHON DANCE

DAYTON, O., July 13.—Final decision not to stage a marathon dance here was announced yesterday by James L. Holland, local man who represented Pittsburgh promoters who were back of the exhibition. Holland said the decision was reached when it became evident city officials were opposed to the affair.

Advertising In Herald Brings In Crowd For Dealer

Does advertising pay? R. M. Leach, of the Leach Motor Car company, says it does, especially if it's in The Circleville Herald.

Turning upon the electric power inquiry, Norris said it was so powerful that it prevented either party from saying anything in their platforms about it.

"With its sinister and selfish motives, it has invaded the public schools; it has contaminated the colleges and the universities; it has bribed and controlled legislatures and public officials; it has bought seats in the United States Senate; it has attempted to control the minister in the pulpit; it has bribed the public press; it has not forgotten the women's clubs, boy scouts, Kiwanis and Rotary societies; and it has undertaken to blacken the character and question the patriotism of every citizen and of every organization that has dared to interfere with its progress," he said.

Norris declared that "every penny of the money by which it has been able to carry on this wonderful campaign has been wrung from the people of the United States in exorbitant charges."

"It will contribute from this fund, stolen from the people, sufficient money to permit each of the great political machines to carry on the sham battle while it continues to thrive and grow fat upon special governmental favors," he added.

FANATIC DIES IN HOSPITAL

COLUMBUS, O., July 13.—Joseph Elias, religious fanatic who barricaded himself in a basement here Tuesday and shot two policemen who attempted to capture him, died in a hospital today.

Death was caused by pneumonia contracted when fire departments poured streams of water into the basement to dislodge Elias, hospital attaches said. He was weakened by several bullet wounds, also, it was said.

RAIL HEAD DIES

NEW YORK, July 13.—Robert I. Todd, 58, president of the Terre Haute, Indianapolis and Eastern railroad and also president of the Indianapolis Traction and Terminal company, died today at the home of his sister, Mrs. William H. Hulick. Heart disease was given as the cause.

SEVEN DIE IN KENTUCKY FOR THEIR CRIMES

Only One of Four White Men and Three Negroes Maintain Innocence.

WESTERN KENTUCKY PENITENTIARY, EDDYVILLE, Ky., July 13.—Four white men and three negroes were executed in the electric chair here early today. The record executions required an elapsed time of one hour and 57 minutes.

Only one of the seven maintained his innocence while three of the white men made confessions just before the current was sent into their bodies.

A last minute effort was made to save the life of Orlando Seymour, 20, of Louisville, who was known as the "dime bandit." He was convicted for killing a Louisville coal dealer in a small holdup.

Attorneys had obtained a writ of habeas corpus against Seymour's execution and this was dismissed. Then they attempted to obtain a stay of execution, pending a hearing on Seymour's sanity. That likewise was refused and the youthful bandit was led to the death chamber.

The other six executed were: Milford Lawson, 35, Corbin, Ky., who killed a man in a feud.

Hascue Dockery, 27, a young mountaineer convicted of killing two women and a man in Harlan-co, Ky.

Charles P. Mitra, 24, St. Louis, who confessed to killing a Louisville grocer in a holdup.

William Moore, negro, 49, Louisville, who killed his sweetheart with a razor.

James Howard, 24, negro, Louisville, who stabbed a girl friend.

Clarence McQueen, 38, Cincinnati, Ky., who killed another negro allegedly for revenge.

The first man was led to the electric chair at 12:25 a. m., and the seventh man was pronounced dead at 2:22. It was the largest number of persons ever to pay the death penalty at one time in the United States.

The only man who protested that he was innocent of the crime was Milford Lawson, the rangy mountaineer who was convicted as a feud killer.

"I never did anything wrong," he moaned as guards led him from his cell down the narrow arway that leads to the death chamber.

Guards had attempted to obtain a confession from him, but he maintained even as he was strapped in the electric chair, that he was innocent.

The white men were executed first, Seymour, Mitra and Dockery making confessions of their guilt.

One of the negroes walked along the death aisle singing a negro spiritual while another sang a familiar southern negro song.

HOPPE AWAITING JUDGES' VERDICT

TOLEDO, O., July 13.—A plea for mercy in the decision on Chas. Hoppe, the last defensive move of Hoppe's counsel, Friday was in the hands of the three common pleas judges of Lucas-co, who will decide whether he goes to the electric chair or to an insane asylum.

The mercy plea was sent to the judges, Charles M. Milroy, James Austin, Jr., and James E. Martin, by Hoppe's lawyers late Thursday.

Hoppe, morose, sullen, defiant, counted the hours in the county jail Friday as the time of the decision drew closer.

Two contentions were set forth in the mercy plea, one was that the insanity of Hoppe was proved in his recent trial for the murder of 7-year-old Dorothy Szegowski, and that, as a result, he should be sent to insane asylum.

ATTEND REUNION OF RAINBOW VETS

Circleville was well represented Friday at the Rainbow Division reunion in Columbus. Some of the World war veterans who attended from here were: Captain Charles S. Gusman, Lieutenant Colonel Harry D. Jackson, Charles J. Ryan, John Ryan, Bryce Briggs, Wilbur Craft, Woody Thomas, Pucker Miller, Milton Friedman, John Ward and Clifford White.

"Aw, Go Jump in the Ocean!"

That's probably how Miss Elsie Ekengren, pretty Washington, D. C., society girl, dared Morton Hoyt, also of Washington. He did. The S. S. Rochembeau had to retrace its banks to rescue the man who, of course along the Newfoundland wouldn't take a dare. Miss Ekengren thought it was very brave of Hoyt to jump. Below, the society youth being hauled into a lifeboat by members of the Rochembeau's crew.

Even Dahlia Can Be "Two-Faced" As Man Here Proves

People who are "two-faced" are seldom liked. But with a dahlia, that is different.

C. L. Black, of 457 E. Main-st, who works at the Mid-West Box factory, brought a fine red one to this office and it had two faces and two stems.

In other words, he had the Siamese twins in the dahlia world. The dahlia is on display at The Herald office if you don't think so.

HEAT MAY HAVE CAUSED PASSING OF AGED WORKER

John Saxon, 81, Stricken While Riding Cultivator On Kingston Farm.

John Saxon, 81, employed on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Young near Kingston, was found in a dying condition at noon Thursday.

Mr. Saxon did not report for dinner, and a search was made. He was cultivating corn, and when found by Mr. Young, he was sitting on a riding cultivator. His body was bent forward and he was in extreme pain. Dr. Russell Lightner, of Kingston, was called, but before the doctor arrived, the aged man had passed away.

His death was due to either the heat or heart trouble.

The deceased has no relatives other than a niece, whose address is unknown.

The funeral services will be held Saturday at 10 a. m. Interment will be made in the Hitler-Ludwig cemetery, under the direction of Undertaker Shanon of Kingston.

Reviewer of Show at Palace Pays Tribute to Circleville Stage Star.

Reviewing "The Palace," New York, in "The Billboard," Elias F. Sugarman pays a tribute to a Circleville stage star, Ted Lewis, commenting as follows:

"Ted Lewis, back at the ace house after a long absence, was given a long and loud ovation when first he stuck his high-topped hat through the curtain. The master of song-talking jazz rhythm gave the folks more than half an hour of his own warbling and musical versatility, and unveiled a nine-piece musical unit, called "His Musical Klowns," that was on a par with its boss in every respect.

"Lewis also received strong support from Eddie Chester, Eleanor Brooks and Arline Langan. The act was one riot of rhythm, speed and unabating applause. They would not permit him to go off until he had about six numbers of his own. The R U Happy Boy was jockeyed into a curtain speech speech. This act is certainly the apex of vaudeville entertainment."

TRIO OF LOST EXPLORERS ON TRIP LOCATED

Swirling Ice Floes Beginning To Give Up Its Hold On Italia's Crew.

By EUGENE LYONS
United Press Staff Correspondent.

MOSCOW, July 13.—Slowly nosing her thick steel prow through the swirling ice floes that for seven weeks had reared themselves like a prison wall between a score of men and the world outside, the Russian icebreaker Krassin steamed today toward a safe niche in history.

The big ship had aboard seven men brought back from death after the crash of the Polar dirigible Italia. She radioed at noon that she was proceeding to pick up more. She added in a business-like manner that after she had effected rescues of all survivors in her vicinity she would proceed to Advent Bay to re-coal.

MOSCOW, July 13.—Men of the dirigible Italia, lost in the Arctic wastes since May 25 when that craft crashed, were reunited in rescue aboard the Russian icebreaker Krassin today.

The big ice-breaker—Leviathan of the Northern waters—plowed through to rescue Captains Adalberto Mariano and Filippo Zappi Wednesday night and last night pushed on to rescue the group headed by Lieutenant Al. Vigliani.

The craft also picked up the shattered airplane of Einar-Paál Lundborg who was on the ice in attempting to rescue the Vigliani group. The plane was rescued by his lieutenant Schyberg.

Not only has the Krassin, according to advices from Moscow—made the two rescues but she has found three other men stranded in the Arctic wastes.

The identity of these three is not accurately known but it is believed they are Captain Soren Ludvig Varming, explorer, and Sjeff Van Dongen, young Dutch dog team driver, who like Mariano and Zappi had been given up as dead. They started to the rescue of Mariano, Zappi and Dr. Finn Malmgren—who was found to have perished in the North—and had not been heard from since.

The trio waved excitedly as they saw the Krassin approach but the commanders of the ice breaker, knowing that the Vigliani group was suffering acutely and that their morale was at low ebb, proceeded to the rescue of them first.

VICE-PRESIDENT IS NOT GOING TO PLAY

ATLANTA, Ga., July 13.—Will J. Vereen, of Moultrie, Ga. selected by the Farmer-Labor party this week as its candidate for vice president, did not ever know the party was holding a convention.

Characterizing his nomination as "absurd," Vereen said he could not accept it. He is a cotton textile manufacturer.

NO MARATHON DANCE

DAYTON, O., July 13.—Final decision not to stage a marathon dance here was announced yesterday by James L. Holland, local man who represented Pittsburgh promoters who were back of the exhibition. Holland said the decision was reached when it became evident city officials were opposed to the affair.

Advertising In Herald Brings In Crowd For Dealer

Does advertising pay? R. M. Leach, of the Leach Motor Car company, says it does, especially if it's in The Circleville Herald.

"We had over 150 call to inspect the new Chrysler Plymouth model at the salesroom between the hours of 6:30 and 11 p. m., Thursday night," Mr. Leach said. "I asked a number of them and they said they had seen our ad in The Herald Thursday."

Mr. Leach was kept busy all evening showing off the new cars due to the ad he had inserted earlier in the day.

YOAKUM GIVES FINE ADDRESS ON MEMORIALS

Talks Thoroughly on Subject Before Rotarians—Committees Are Named.

Touching on the motives that lead mankind to erect monuments, Harry Yoakum gave an interesting talk before Rotarians at their noonday luncheon in the Boggs hotel, Thursday.

Prior to his talk, Rotarians decided to vote on a new constitution and by-laws at the next meeting.

President Colwell also announced his appointment of committees for the year.

Plans were also made for members to practice recreation ball at the high school grounds Monday at 7 p. m. A game with the Lancaster club will be a feature before long.

Mr. Yoakum's talk in part follows:

"The vastness of this subject makes it impossible for me to more than just remind my listeners of the motives that actuate mankind to erect monuments, to briefly sketch the history of memorial art, and then review the development of the industry in America.

"Proper consideration of the memorial industry must start at the very beginning of civilization. Man's spiritual urge convincing him of the immortality of the soul, and the life after death, has been the chief motivating force back of the erection of memorials in memory of our loved ones. These carry with them a two fold meaning the commemoration of deeds of the one called to the higher life and the expression of our hope of immortality. It seems that mankind realizing the inevitable approach of that transition, commonly called death, has since time immemorial to build something that would long outlast and outlast that particular individual existence.

"And so he turned to marble, granite, or perhaps that type of stone most easily available, appreciating that stone of all materials typifies those lasting qualities so essential to pass on to posterity the things he wishes to perpetuate.

"As we delve back into the ages, in ancient Egypt we find magnificent reminders of memorial art. The Great Pyramids, and Sphinx are well known to everyone. They have long stood forth as marvels of the ancient Egyptian civilization. In the Valley of the Kings are the great tombs in which rest the bodies of Egyptian rulers. No bit of news has attracted more attention within the past few years than the unearthing of one of these great memorials the tomb of King Tutankhamen, revealing to an inquisitive world the glory and splendor of that civilization which arose to great heights, then crumbled and decayed to be succeeded by other civilizations, some of which have also crumbled to decay as humanly progresses.

"In the development of memorial art Greece had her glorious temples, statues and sarcophagi.

LOANS UP TO $500

A man is often judged by his purpose in life. Washington's purpose was breaking the bonds of tyranny and the foundation of a free nation.

Lincoln's purpose was breaking the bonds of slavery and the preservation of the union of the Free States. These men accomplished their purposes.

Many another lesser known has accomplished his purpose by bringing contentment to someone. Shall we say that such a man is less great because of the humbler path of his life?

The purpose of The City Loan is to bring happiness to thousands of men and women by putting money into their hands for the accomplishment of their purposes.

The City Loan

Rome her columns and triumphal arches, India her peerless gem of Taj Mahal, recognized by all students of art as the greatest memorial of all times, and just recently we read where an archaeological expedition headed by a famous German scientist has definitely established that a rather ordinary pile of stone, is in reality the sacrificial altar of Jacob, which he erected in commemoration of his vision of the ladder that reached to heaven.

"We see then that men from the dim beginning of things has always recognized the urge to perpetuate memories and commemorate events by the erection of enduring memorials.

"The granite pioneers were not on every side by discouragement. Lack of machinery, lack of knowledge upon which to base development, rigors of long winters and the necessity of creating a force of skilled workers, combined to make their lot anything but an easy one.

"These obstacles did not stop the men who had within them those qualities that have made American industry in every line go forward in tremendous strides to the greatest commercial achievements in the history of the world.

"During the last quarter of a century we have seen the granite quarries in Barre and other Vermont cities, in Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, North Carolina, Georgia, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Missouri, California and other sections developed to a high degree of business efficiency.

"Not only have the quarries introduced the latest methods of lifting the gigantic blocks of granite, weighing tons and tons, from their quarries oft times 250 to 300 feet in depth, but the manufacturers who transform these rough blocks into beautifully finished memorials have also kept abreast of the times.

"Today their plants are equipped with the latest in time and labor saving machinery. Gigantic saws set with diamonds rip their way through the hard blocks of granite, reducing them to patterns from which the granite cutters make memorials.

"Visions of the granite pioneers have been dwarfed by the rapid strides made in the memorial industry. Not a quarter of a century ago, had even a faint conception of the immense demands for marble and granite memorials now made annually.

"I cannot illustrate this with an account of the plight of one of the largest quarries in the United States. Recently this man, one of the pioneers was compelled to invest a quarter of a million dollars in a special steam shovel and other apparatus to move a pile of waste material in order to continue his development work. Twenty-five years ago when his quarry was in the early stages of growth this man selected a spot that he considered far removed from his quarry, where he could deposit the waste material. He has lived to see the demand for this granite eat up the supply so rapidly it became necessary to move the mountain of waste material or go out of business.

"There is more waste in the raw products used in the Memorial industry than in any other industry in the United States.

"Retailers have been educated through the Memorial Craftsmen of America, their national trade organization, and other sources, to demand only perfect marble and granite for their memorials. Quarries are compelled to discard from 50 to 70 per cent of the granite taken from their quarries to satisfy these needs and conform to these high standards of quality. In addition to all this the manufacturers add to this waste in the finishing process.

"The state of Wisconsin produces some of the finest colored granites in the world. Quarrying and manufacturing centers in that state are located at Montello, Waupun, and Marinette.

"Unfortunately in Ohio we have no granite deposits of sufficient size, or high enough quality to warrant their development. Ohio and Indiana are famous however for the freestone and limestone deposits. These materials are however used more extensively in the building trades than in the memorial industry.

"I would like to point out to you the improvement we have shown in our own retail branch located here in Circleville.

"Since I appreciate that it is a delicate matter to draw comparisons I shall confine myself to a brief recital of the progress we have made.

"We have a most complete and efficient working force of three men, modern machinery just recently installed at considerable cost, an efficient courteous, well trained sales force, and a pleasant inviting salesroom.

"We aim to buy all our supplies that can be obtained here in Circleville.

"Our payroll of over $200 per week is paid to men who reside here in Circleville.

"Taxes are paid on all autos, stock, and machinery to the treasurer of Pickaway-co.

"All who so desire are invited to go to our plant and see the various processes of finishing and letting being actually done."

True Distinction with Body by Fisher The Coach only $585

Of all the reasons contributing to the tremendous public acceptance of the Bigger and Better Chevrolet none is more important than the fact that it offers the distinction, safety and comfort of Body by Fisher.

Not only do Chevrolet-Fisher bodies reveal outstanding beauty of line, detail and finish, but they provide the added strength and safety of Fisher's famous hardwood and steel construction. And in every Chevrolet closed body there is provided the wholeness of rich pattern, the hardware of period design, and the attractive color harmonies which are such important factors in true major car distinction.

When you examine the Chevrolet coach you will realize how impressively it embodies these fundamentals of fine car quality. Come today!

A man is often judged by his purpose in life. Washington's purpose was breaking the bonds of tyranny and the foundation of a free nation.

Lincoln's purpose was breaking the bonds of slavery and the preservation of the union of the Free States. These men accomplished their purposes.

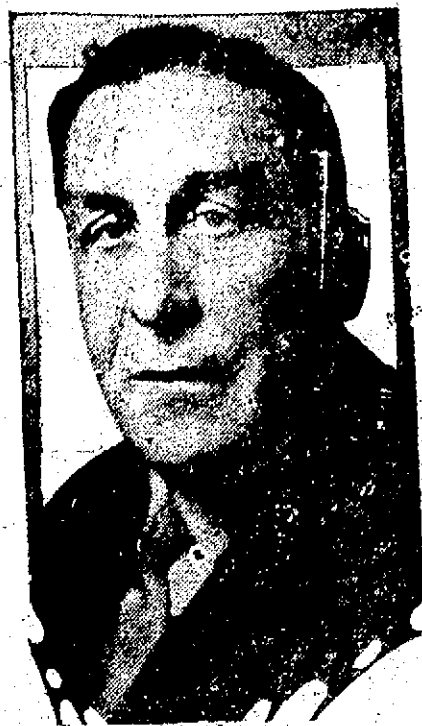

Many another lesser known has accomplished his purpose by bringing contentment to someone. Shall we say that such a man is less great because of the humbler path of his life?

The purpose of The City Loan is to bring happiness to thousands of men and women by putting money into their hands for the accomplishment of their purposes.

His Death a Mystery

Stocks reacted crazily all over the world upon word of the death of Capt. Alfred Loewenstein, the mystery man of European finance. The magnate stepped through a door of his Fokker plane while crossing the English channel and dropped 4,000 feet to the water below. In some quarters it is hinted that the spectacular "accident" wasn't an accident at all, but a deliberate exit from life on the part of the Belgian Croesus.

Vanity of Pakenham Brought His Defeat

The American forces under Andrew Jackson at New Orleans in January, 1815, inflicted severe losses on the British troops because General Pakenham, the British commander, insisted upon carrying out a set method of attack which did not prove successful against the Americans, points out Clifford Raymond in an article in Liberty.

"It was British tradition," continues the author, "that troops could take a position in frontal attack, carrying material for filling ditches and building up attacking walls. It was also in the history of British regiments in America that they had not done it on many occasions; but Pakenham, with his reputation to maintain, was convinced that he had to do it even with Andrew Jackson animating the troops behind the breastworks."

NEW-CAR SALES

WILLYS-OVERLAND SHOWING STEADY GAINS

Coming from sixth place in January with a total of only 13,800 to second place in May with a total of 44,559 cars is the remarkable record set by Willys-Overland. This tremendous success is attributed to the wonderful quality and low price of the Whippet along with the introduction of the new Whippet Six and the Willys-Knight standard models since the first of the year.

Willys-Overland is the fourth manufacturer to have built 2,000,000 cars, is the third to have built more than 40,000 cars in one month and is one of the three largest manufacturers in the industry.

In keeping with the factory the Yates Motor Co. have finished second in the county in the number of cars sold and during June sold 11 new and 16 used cars.

Mr. Yates attributes the sale of new cars to the entire satisfaction every owner is having, with his car and on used cars to the reconditioning and guarantee which is back of every car. 136-11.

REAL THRILLS GIVEN TWO ON RETURN HOME

Visited In Circleville, Held By Bandit, Arrested, Some Of Experiences.

Returning from their old home in Circleville, Mr. and Mrs. William Mead, of Mansfield, O., were given an unusual experience according to the Mansfield News.

That journal says: Flagged down by an escaped criminal near Delaware, driving with the gun of this criminal in the bank looking into saved-off shot guns, having the hand-cuffs clamped on, thrown into prison and being cursed by a sheriff, were some of the thrills experienced Monday by Mr. and Mrs. William Mead, Wolfe avenue.

They were nervous wrecks today as a result of these harrowing experiences. Their three-year-old son, William Jr., is the only one of the family not showing any effects of the thrills.

Visited Old Home
Mr. and Mrs. Mead and their little son had driven to their old home at Circleville, Friday. On their way home Mr. Mead stopped at the home office of the Logan Natural Gas and Fuel company, for which he works, being office manager of the Mansfield office.

They left Columbus about noon, Monday. Nearing Delaware, Mr. and Mrs. Mead noticed a county car standing in the road. A man was standing beside the car, gun in hand and waving the Mansfield car down. He asked if the car was going to Delaware. Receiving an affirmative answer, the stranger told the Meads he had to get to Delaware to telephone for officers to get a prisoner who had escaped. He said "I've got the low down on them."

Mead says he did as he was commanded. He could not only see that the man had two guns but could feel one of them in his back. As they neared Delaware, the stranger ordered the driver to stop. He said he would go to a farm house. He thanked the Mansfield people for the lift.

Mr. and Mrs. Mead drove into Delaware stopping in front of the postoffice. A man who they afterwards learned was Sheriff Lambert, of Delaware county, came out and ordered Mead to get out of the car. He put the handcuffs on the Mansfield man then turned him over to a deputy who marched Mead to jail with a shotgun.

Not Permitted to Explain
Mead tried to explain who he was. He also offered to go with the man and show him where the real criminal had gotten out of his car. Mead did not know the man in Delaware was the sheriff.

"He was searched on the streets in gaze of a curious public, then placed in jail with the prisoners and refused the use of the telephone. Mead says had he been allowed to use the telephone he could have called the manager of the Logan Gas company at Delaware.

Mrs. Mead and the baby were left in the car in charge of the man who proved to be the sheriff. Mrs. Mead says he shoved a gun in her face, declaring: "We've got the right birds." She says he swore at her at different times, demanding to know where the guns were. She protested they had no guns and urged the man to search the car.

Held About Two Hours
A storm came up. A woman, who later they learned was the matron, came out and invited Mrs. Mead and the baby to go into the house. Mead was in jail one hour and 50 minutes. He and Mrs. Mead were not allowed to communicate with each other. The sheriff had told Mead to go upstairs and look out the window when he had offered to go back and help look for the real man.

Mrs. Mead says officers came to the jail for guns. The matron brought some downstairs but they were not loaded. Mrs. Mead says the matron treated her very nicely. Mead says the real criminal was a gentleman beside the sheriff of Delaware county.

Afterwards the sheriff learned that the man he wanted was Lynn Adkins, of Indianapolis, who had made his escape from Deputy Sheriff Ralph Paul, of Franklin county.

He was arrested in Marion on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. He got away from the deputy and the probation officers.

Had No Description
Mr. and Mrs. Mead says that Sheriff Lambert had no description of Adkins. His picture does not look like Mead as he is about twice as large. Columbus telephoned to the Delaware sheriff to stop a car with a certain license.

This was the car Mead was driving. This number had probably been gotten after Adkins got into the Mansfield car after abandoning the county car.

Mr. and Mrs. Mead were unable to sleep last night. They are not able to eat much today. Some-

The Reason Why We Do Not Hold Sales

If we conducted so-called "sales," with bewildering up-and-down shifting of prices—and "come early" for best choice—and disappointments because of "all sold out"—we could never give you the kind of Service you are entitled to and that we insist on giving.

It is our plan rather, to sell you Quality Goods only—priced as low as possible—from the day we buy the goods, but NEVER to buy goods for a Special Sale. MEANING OF TITINA
For some obscure reason it did us a great deal of good to read that Titina, the bright-eyed little dog that Gen. Umberto Noble has taken with him on his aerial excursion to the North Pole, has survived the crash of his dirigible and is awaiting rescue, with her master, on a drifting ice floe in the Arctic.

The aviator who circled over the stranded party and dropped supplies reports that Titina was in the best of health. Unworried by her plight, she scampered about over the ice yip-yipping and chasing the speeding shadow of the airplane as it slid over the snow drifts.

And, as we said, for some reason we're mighty glad to hear it. There is something extremely appealing about the thought of that little dog riding clear across the top of the world in an airship, surviving the perils of shipwreck in the far north and living to gnaw bones in Italy after an adventure such as few men have ever had. Titina has been so unconscious of what was happening; to her, undoubtedly, the whole thing has just been a new kind of outing—a bit unusual, perhaps, but nothing to get excited about.

Titina, however, is not so much different than the rest of us, after all. We'd realize the gravity of the situation if we were wrecked on an Arctic ice floe, but in our daily life, at home we utterly fail for the most part, to see where we are going or to appreciate the significance of our life-long voyage through the world.

No more than that. Frisky little dog knew what her ride to the Pole was all about. We grasp the real purport of our lives. It seems to us that we are here quite comprehensively, and our obvious duty is to work, marry, rear children and live as comfortably and decently as we may; but beyond that we are befuddled. The tremendous implications of the fact that we are here at all; the illimitable possibilities of mankind's never-ending voyage upward from savagery to civilization; these things never bother our minds.

We always underestimate life. We do not realize that it is an everlasting, flame-girt mystery. We fail to see that humanity's slow progress up from ignorance, barbarity and superstition to freedom, intelligence and idealism is the most magnificent, awe-inspiring spectacle in the universe. The thing is as much outside our comprehension as Noble's flight to the North Pole was outside the comprehension of his canine mascot.

Some day we will have better vision. Then we will do away with wars, which blast the miracle of life out of millions of young men; with poverty, which cramps immortal souls in strait-jackets of want and disease; with hatred, which poisons hearts that were meant for brotherhood. And then we shall begin really to live.

THE OLD WORD "GOB"
An epauletted admiral at Washington has announced that the navy department frowns on the word "gob" as applied to sailors. Naval men are forbidden to use it and the general public is requested to follow suit.

It so happens, however, that the enlisted men themselves like the word. It came into use some years ago when the general public was referring to the sailors as "jackies"; and nothing ever made the sailors madder than that. They seized on "gob" in self defense and the word has a distinguished record by this time.

One suspects that it will take more than an edict by an admiral to suppress the word.

The Rambler
By NORMAN W. RALSTON

RIGHT!
You have fought
The battle
Hard,
Maybe you have Lost a friend
Who you once
Thought
Was a pard
That would stick
Until the end;
You have failed and
Lost it all
So it seems for you
Are sad
And you hate to hear
Them call
At you
On the street—
"A cad!"
But if you have
Lost the fight
And you really tried
To win,
Toiled with all you
Main and might
Here amid
The battle's din,
If you really
Tried your Best
To accomplish every Aim
Why, forget the Dismal rest
You have really
Cleared your Name—
And what we mean to say
Is,
Do the best that you
Know how,
Fight the way your Conscience goes
And you'll find it
There, somehow,
In your garden—a
Sweet rose—
Man cannot suit all
His friends
When he sets out
For a goal
But when all the Battle ends
What a triumph
For his Soul!

There's one mistake a woman can't rectify immediately—and that's after she's just bobbed her hair and decided it will look better long again.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?
When we found a lovely wild flower the other day we said we should like to know its name, for it was new to us. Now Judd Lewis asks briefly, "Why?" And we answer just as succinctly, "Because." And anyway, Miss McCoy told us it was an orchid.

Emma Spencer in Newark Advocate.
An orchid! In Ohio! Gee, if you're that easy, we're gonna come around and tell you a few next time we have a vacation! Judd Lewis in Houston Post-Dispatch.
Poor dear Judd! He has never wandered through the sweet Ohio woods gathering lady's slippers which also belong to the orchid family—Ema, again.

I'm surprised at Judd. Orchids must be large, and common in Ohio. Last time I visited there the Mayor sent me a dozen large purple ones tied with white ribbon; and they must be lady slippers if Ema slipped up on one! Ha! Ha! the Lady from West Palm Beach, Fla.

It looks to us like the only mistake Judd made was getting in an argument with a couple of lady paragraphs about flowers—where is there a man who can name half a dozen of the species, tell where they grow, and have his paper graded 100 per cent perfect!

Love's Ecstasy
by May Christie

Absorbing Adventures and Romance of a Country Girl in New York
Chapter I.
ON a bright summer morning, at the wheel of her dilapidated, albeit serviceable, little car sat Miss Aleda Ray—youthful, pretty, forget-me-not-blue-eyed, and smiling—skimming along the Adirondack roads with a celerity that was both risky and invigorating.

It was a heavenly morning, surely fashioned for romance and youth and happiness! And Aleda was quite young—not yet three and twenty. Romantic? Certainly! Though up here in the mountains no one had touched that unawakened heart.

And happy? Ah! of course, in a queer, excited manner, for like Alexander launching forth on new worlds to conquer, wasn't she setting out on the morrow to the "Big City" on her first job?

"Oh! Gorgeous!" She had rounded a corner, and far below her in a pine-fringed hollow, gleaming like a bright blue jewel, lay the shimmering loveliness of Indian Lake. Between her and the water buttermilk stars and the meadows with a blaze of gold. After the night's rain the sun was drawing forth a heavenly odor from the balsam, and the pine, the hemlock, and the cedar, and Aleda—pulling up the car—drank in long breaths of perfume that were exquisite.

"A morning for romance! One ought to meet one's lover!" Up here in the mountains she had got into the habit of thinking out aloud. She descended from the rocky contraption, exhibiting—had anybody been there to see it?—two remarkably pretty nether limbs (sans stockings!) that could have held their own with any stage beauty, and waded into the lush green meadows on a four-leaf-clover quest.

For quaint superstition—let us confess it at the outset—had allured Aleda here.

She wanted Luck. Some token of justification for the Great Step on the morrow.

And today, here in this magic beauty spot, she felt that Luck must certainly mean Love!

White to the lips and trembling at the knees, she gasped: "Oh, is he—dead?"

"Noble! Dunno. He's—bleeding." The driver—Aleda recognized him as the chauffeur from the local inn—was shaking like an aspen leaf as he knelt beside the injured man. "That goldmine car of yours—"

"I know. I'm sorry. Help me pull him to the side—here on the ferns." A strength had come to her. She put her two hands underneath his shoulders, and, assisted by the driver, gently dragged him to the grass.

There was a gash upon his forehead—a spatter of blood trickling down.

Auctioneer Who Is Known Here Is In Jail On Charge
Earl Swepton, former Chillicothe, was under arrest at Columbus Thursday, held on a warrant issued in Chillicothe by Squire Kirsch for Jacob Houk, who charges that Swepton defrauded him to secure Houk's signature as joint marker on a note for $330.

The warrant adds that Swepton was not the owner of the personal property described and tics that the automobile was encumbered by a chattel mortgage.

Deputy Sheriff Hiram Dixon, accompanied by Mr. Houk, went to Columbus Thursday morning to return Swepton to this city to answer the charge. — Chillicothe News-Advertiser.

REAL THRILLS GIVEN TWO ON RETURN HOME

Visited In Circleville, Held By Bandit, Arrested, Some Of Experiences.

Returning from their old home in Circleville, Mr. and Mrs. William Mead, of Mansfield, O., were given an unusual experience according to the Mansfield News.

That journal says: Flagged down by an escaped criminal near Delaware, driving with the gun of this criminal in the bank looking into sawed-off shot guns, having the hand-cuffs clamped on, thrown into prison and being cursed by a sheriff, were some of the thrills experienced Monday by Mr. and Mrs. William Mead, Wolfe avenue.

They were nervous wrecks today as a result of these harrowing experiences. Their three-year-old son, William Jr., is the only one of the family not showing any effects of the thrills.

Visited Old Home Mr. and Mrs. Mead and their little son had driven to their old home at Circleville, Friday. On their way home Mr. Mead stopped at the home office of the Logan Natural Gas and Fuel company, for which he works, being office manager of the Mansfield office.

They left Columbus about noon, Monday. Nearing Delaware, Mr. and Mrs. Mead noticed a county car standing in the road. A man was standing beside the car, gun in hand and waving the Mansfield car down. He asked if the car was going to Delaware. Receiving an affirmative answer, the stranger told the Meads he had to get to Delaware to telephone for officers to get a prisoner who had escaped. He said "I've got the low down on them."

Mead says he did as he was commanded. He could not only see that the man had two guns but could feel one of them in his back. As they neared Delaware, the stranger ordered the driver to stop. He said he would go to a farm house. He thanked the Mansfield people for the lift.

Mr. and Mrs. Mead drove into Delaware stopping in front of the postoffice. A man who they afterwards learned was Sheriff Lambert, of Delaware county, came out and ordered Mead, with an oath, to "stick 'em up!" He put the handcuffs on the Mansfield man then turned him over to a trusty who marched Mead to jail with a shotgun.

Not Permitted to Explain Mead tried to explain who he was. He also offered to go with the man and show him where the real criminal had gotten out of his car. Mead did not know the man in Delaware was the sheriff.

He was searched on the streets in gaze of a curious public, then placed in jail with the prisoners and refused the use of the telephone. Mead says he had been allowed to use the telephone he could have called the manager of the Logan Gas company at Delaware.

Mrs. Mead and the baby were left in the car in charge of the man who proved to be the sheriff. Mrs. Mead says he shoved a gun in her face, declaring: "We've got the right birds." She says he swore at her at different times, demanding to know where the guns were. She protested they had no guns and urged the man to search the car.

Held About Two Hours A storm came up. A woman, who later they learned was the matron, came out and invited Mrs. Mead and the baby to go into the house. Mead was in jail one hour and 50 minutes. He and Mrs. Mead were not allowed to communicate with each other. The sheriff had told Mead to go upstairs and look out the window when he had offered to go back and help look for the real man. Mrs. Mead says officers came to the jail for guns. The matron brought some downstairs but they were not loaded. Mrs. Mead says the matron treated her very nicely. Mead says the real criminal was a gentleman beside the sheriff of Delaware county.

Afterwards the sheriff learned that the man he wanted was Lynn Adkins, of Indianapolis, who had made his escape from Deputy Sheriff Ralph Paul, of Franklin county.

He was arrested in Marion on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. He got away from the deputy and the probation officers.

Had No Description Mr. and Mrs. Mead says that Sheriff Lambert had no description of Adkins. His picture does not look like Mead as he is about twice as large. Columbus telephoned to the Delaware sheriff to stop a car with a certain license. This was the car Mead was driving. This number had probably been gotten after Adkins got into the Mansfield car after abandoning the county car.

Mr. and Mrs. Mead were unable to sleep last night. They are not able to eat much today. Some-

Bob Maloney, Phil Wenner, Nelson Sweyer and Junior Sweyer were visitors at the Glenwood Inn pool out of Chillicothe Thursday afternoon.

ATTEND WEDDING OF NEPHEW

Judge and Mrs. I. N. Abernethy of Circleville were present Wednesday afternoon at the wedding of Mrs. Abernethy's nephew, Dr. Walter Sittler, to Miss Mary Catherine Cullumber, at St. Peter's Lutheran church at 4 o'clock.

While the guests assembled a charming program of pipe organ music was rendered by Mrs. Catherine Bonner Forquer using the numbers "At Dawning," "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life" and "Ave Marie." During the ceremony Mrs. Forquer softly played, "O Promise Me."

Mendelshon's wedding march was softly played as the bridal party took their places at the altar which was beautiful with two seven branch candelabra holding lighted white tapers and tall wicker vases of delphinium, gladioli and fern and baskets of daisies.

The bride wore a white taffeta frock fashioned with short sleeves a tight bodice and full skirt with an uneven scalloped hemline. White hose and pumps and a garden hat of white hair braid completed the costume. The bride's bouquet of Killarney rosebuds, valley lilies and Swanson's in a shower was tied with white satin ribbons and valley lilies.

Dr. Sittler is the oldest son of Rev. and Mrs. Joseph Sittler of Mulberry Hill, Lancaster, and is a graduate of Lancaster high school, Wittenberg and Ohio State university where he received his M. D. degree. He is now a practicing physician in Chicago. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa Fraternity.

Out-of-town guests present were: Mrs. Bradford PeVere and Misses Wealtha and Mary PeVere of Upper Arlington; Dr. Earl Blair of Chicago; Mrs. William Meikle, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Meikle of Methuen; Dr. and Mrs. Charles Rauch of Logan and Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Sexauer of Ashville.

LUNCHEON-BRIDGE FOR MISS ROONEY

The luncheon-bridge to which Miss Mildred and Miss Frances Mason were hostesses Thursday at 1 o'clock, was an affair of unusual charm with effective decorations of large baskets of striking hydrangeas throughout the house.

The 40 guests were served at small tables on which novel place cards and nut cups were a part of the color scheme. The center flower holders were square boxes covered with medallions of paper in two shades of green. These artistic holders were filled with honeysuckle and coreopsis which were of two shades of yellow.

The ten tables had been placed in three large front rooms at the Mason home, so that everyone was cool and uncrowded, which added a great deal to the pleasure of the afternoon.

Miss Nellie Rooney of Columbus daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Rooney of E. Union-st. was the guest of honor. Her marriage to Mr. Edwin Tingley, attorney of Columbus will be an event of the early fall.

Other guests from Columbus were: Mrs. Everett Lampe, Mrs. J. J. McKinnon, Miss Anna Rooney, Mrs. Sam Moffitt, Miss Catherine McLean, Mrs. C. L. Hoyt and Miss Edith Vance. Mrs. Lester Huske and Mrs. Arnold Johnson were from Lancaster and Mrs. Collis Young was from Lima. The

Thirst Makes Its Own Demand For That Good Mykrantz Jumbo Soda

With thirst rapidly coming on and growing in intensity the "sign of the soda fountain" offers an oasis indicating relief seized upon with joy, and then, if the sodas do not live up to expectations in tastiness and coldness and in its most satisfying quality the effect is all lost.

But every time you visit MYKRANTZ'S DRUG STORE and drink at MYKRANTZ'S Fountain you find a new and greater pleasure, for it is here that quality and service are always paramount and to the most complete satisfaction demanded by any thirst. And there are drinks in the widest variety from the simplest fruit phosphates to the fanciest concoits that man can produce, and ice cream in as many servings as you could hope to consume in a month's time.

LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMP PICKS HEENEY TO WIN BOUT

TO WEAR GENE DOWN IN TILT ON JULY 26TH

Big Blacksmith Has More Endurance In Opinion of Jack McAuliffe.

BY JACK MAULIFFE
Retired Undeclared Lightweight Champion

(Copyright 1928 United Press)
NEW YORK, July 13.—Tom Heenev will defeat Gene Tunney for the heavyweight championship when they meet at Yankee Stadium, July 26.

Heenev has more endurance than Tunney and will wear him down and win the decision at the end of 15 rounds. I don't think Heenev has the punch to knock out Tunney, but he is apt to maul the champion up pretty badly before the final bell.

On the cold dope, Tunney should win because he has everything in a boxing line. Tunney's lead and counter is one of the best I've seen among present day boxers. Tunney could put up a whole of a fight if he would cut loose. He showed a flash of fighting heart in the Dempsey fight at Chicago after he was knocked down in the seventh round.

But Tunney doesn't seem to be interested in boxing. He's been reading too much philosophy. Shakespeare and Shaw are all right but they never helped a fighter beat an opponent.

I do not look for Tunney to be as good shape for this bout as he was at Philadelphia or Chicago. It is impossible for a boxer to keep in condition by fighting 2 bouts (20 rounds) in two years.

The last five rounds of the forthcoming bout will tell more on Tunney than they will on a regular fellow like Heenev who is used to going 20 rounds.

Once proficient in boxing does not mean that you will always be proficient. I know of no profession that requires more practice and work than the game of boxing. The art of boxing is hard to attain and easy to lose. Who knows but that Tunney out of the ring for almost a year has not lost part of his wonderful boxing skill?

I do not know as yet any particular blow that Heenev has that will give him any advantage in

GOLF

Golf is a form of work made expensive enough for a rich man to enjoy it. It is physical and mental exertion made attractive by the fact that you have to dress for it in a $200,000 club house.

Golf is what letter carrying, ditch digging and carpet beating would be if those three tasks had to be performed on the same hot afternoon in short pants and colored socks by gentlemen who required a different implement for every mood.

Twenty-five years ago there was but one golf club to a community. Today there is one to a block. This shows what can be done with a sport once you create the idea that two blackballs will be sufficient to keep a man out of it.

Golf is the simplest looking game in the world when you decide to take it up, and the toughest looking after you have been at it ten or twelve years.

It is probably the only game a man can play as long as a quarter of a century and then discover that it is too deep for him in the first place.

The game is played on carefully selected grass with little white balls and as many clubs as the player can afford. These balls cost from 75 cents to $2.50, and it is possible to support a family of ten people (all adults) for five months on the money represented by the balls lost by some golfers in a single afternoon.

A golf course has eighteen holes, seventeen of which are unnecessary and put in to make the game harder. A "hole" is a tin cup in the center of a "green." A "green" is a small parcel of grass costing about $1.98 a blade and usually situated between a brook, a couple of apple trees and a lot of unfinished excavations.

The idea is to get the golf ball from a given point to each of the eighteen cups in the fewest strokes and the greatest number of words. The silly thing about it all is that after you have been all afternoon poking the ball around the lot you find that the eighteenth hole is right in front of the club house from which you started.

The ball must not be thrown, pushed or carried. It must be propelled entirely by about $200 worth of curious looking implements, designed to provoke the owner.

Each implement has a specific purpose and ultimately some golfers get to know what that purpose is. They are exceptions.

After each hole has been completed the golfer counts his strokes. Then he subtracts six and says: "Made that in five. That's one above par. Shall we play for 50 cents on the next hole, too, Ed?"

After the final or eighteenth hole the golfer adds up his score and stops when he has reached 87. He then has a swim, a pint of gin, sings "Sweet Adeline" with six or eight other lads and calls it the end of a perfect day.

It's a great game. It must be great. It has put most of our middle aged men back into boy's clothing.

Country's Youth Burns To Emulate Lindy, Byrd

But Hundreds Fail in Test Devised to Eliminate Unfit Applicants

By GRAHAM STEWART
International Illustrated News Staff Writer

WASHINGTON.—It used to be Frank Merrill and Fred Fearnot whom the average American youngster burned to imitate—that is, if he hadn't already given his allegiance to Buffalo Bill. But no longer. You can take the word of Brigadier General Benjamin D. Foulois that these old idols have tottered and fallen, forgotten before the glamor of the Lindberghs, the Chamberlains, the Byrds.

So many hundreds of letters are received by the War Department inquiring as to the qualifications for a successful pilot that air service officials have created an imaginary "perfect applicant." Each one of these would-be fliers is, so to speak, stood back to back with the imaginary applicant to see how he measures up, and in scarcely one instance out of a hundred does he meet the test.

General Foulois is a strict measurer of aeronautical timber, but his strictness arises from personal knowledge of the requirements. He himself is the first airplane pilot the army ever had. In 1909 the government decided that it ought to take note of the new science, and bought a solitary airplane for the army. General Foulois, then a young balloon officer, was taught to fly by Orville Wright.

The satisfactory air applicant, according to General Foulois, is between 20 and 25 years old. He is unmarried, and he has both a well balanced mind and a well developed body, the two co-ordinated to a high degree. Previous experience in flying is not necessary, but the tyro must be quick to learn and retain

Baseball

Yesterday's hero: Charley Root, Chicago Cubs pitcher, who gave the Boston Braves only five hits and enabled the Cubs to win, 4 to 1. It was Root's first victory in eight starts.

Ray Moss and Adolpho Luque pitched superb ball only to have the Brooklyn-Gincinnati game called in the ninth inning on account of rain. Neither team scored. Moss gave three hits and Luque six.

Henry Johnson and Wiley Moore, who relieved him, were both wild and Detroit won an easy game from the New York Yankees, 4 to 2.

George Uhle hurled ten steady innings and the Cleveland Indians evened the series with Washington by winning, 2 to 1.

Can a Good Cigar be Made to Sell for 5c?

We say it can. And we've got the cigar with which to prove it—Havana Ribbon. Thirty years on the market; added experience behind it every year; production increasing by millions—that's why we're safe in saying there isn't another 5c cigar that's even a close second to Havana Ribbon.

Best of all is the fact that Havana Ribbon contains no bitter under-ripe nor flat-tasting over-ripe tobacco. And no "cuttings" or short ends to crumble in your mouth. But only long, fragrant, flavorful, mellow-mild, fully-ripe middle leaves of choice tobacco plants. Can you imagine such a thing in a 5c cigar? Dig up a nickel and get the reality of it! You'll tie up to Havana Ribbon for good. And you'll fatten your savings bank account right smartly with the money its low price will save you. THE WORLD HAS A NEW AND FINER MOTOR CAR

Salon Body Designs

The new Salon Body design for the new "400" series was developed after extended personal study by Mr. Nash himself of the latest creations by European body artists of international fame.

Original ideas in body artistry were co-ordinated with the most modern developments revealed in foreign and American Salons.

And the Salon Nash design is the perfected result—a new body type of the most modern beauty.

It could fittingly adorn a chassis priced at many thousands of dollars. Nash invested a fortune in dies and machinery to create it. But you may avail yourself of it on a line of cars notably moderate in price. In body design, as in other important features, Nash has again outstripped all competition. The World has a new and finer motor car—with a radically new and finer type of body.

ate and of the best character and habits. At first glance this might seem a measure that almost any one of the correct age could meet, yet the fact remains that few get by. Probably more fall in the rigid physical test, known in the service as the 609 test, than for any other reason. Roughly 50 per cent. of the men who get as far as this test are discarded because they do not meet requirements. But the applicants who do get through are worth the trouble, in the opinion of air service officers. These are given a year's course at either Brooks or Kelly Fields, both in Texas, and discharged as second lieutenants in the Air Reserve and as pilots fitted to follow aviation as a career. Mr. and Mrs. Otis Leist and family and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Penn and family attended the Hunter reunion held at the home of Mr. Clarence Hunter near London, O. One hundred and two relatives and friends attended.

Mrs. D. H. Dreisbach, Mrs. F. I. Rittenour, Miss Ira Rittenour, Robert Rittenour and Mrs. Helen Anderson of Circleville were visitors at the Lancaster camp grounds on Tuesday, getting ready for camp meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Miller and children, Mildred and Bobbie, of Dayton, O., Mrs. W. L. Winter and son, Robert, and Mr. Robert Crawford of Newark, O., Miss Ruth Miller of Lancaster, and Mrs. W. F. Frances and daughter, dren. Mrs. Winter and Mr. Crawford remained for a week's visit with Mrs. Goodman and Mr. Leist.

The other day I crawled into a shiny new sedan beside a smooth-talking salesman who wanted to demonstrate his latest model to me.

We drove several miles and his conversation was divided into two periods: five minutes telling me of the wonders of his car (the car itself was doing all the sales-argument necessary) and fifteen minutes knocking the products of his competitors.

His first crack was to the effect that one competitor with a six and a four in the field was about to abandon the four and concentrate on sixes. It had been discovered, he assured me, that the four was becoming as obsolete as the dodo, and the big boys of the automotive world were lining up their forces to produce sixes and eights exclusively.

A few more minutes of knocking his rivals, and then I got in a word edge-wise.

"Your own company puts out a dandy little four," I observed. "What assurance have prospective purchasers of your four that you are not going to quit making it?"

Without turning a hair, he assured me vehemently that his company had no notion of quitting the four-cylinder field; that there are a certain number of motorists who love the four and won't have anything else; that the four is a crackerjack little boat, economical and cheap, and will be manufactured and marketed right along.

Apparently he never noticed the discrepancy in his line of reasoning. Blithely he turned the same weapon he had used against his rival into a plowshare of profit to himself.

It is too bad, for his car really is a fine performer in its price field, and I wouldn't mind owning one. It sold itself to me completely, but the salesman unsold me in a hurry.

LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMP PICKS HEENEY TO WIN BOUT

TO WEAR GENE DOWN IN TILT ON JULY 26TH

Big Blacksmith Has More Endurance In Opinion of Jack McAuliffe.

BY JACK MAULIFFE
Retired Undeclared Lightweight Champion

(Copyright 1928 United Press)
NEW YORK, July 13.—Tom Heenev will defeat Gene Tunney for the heavyweight championship when they meet at Yankee Stadium, July 26.

Heenev has more endurance than Tunney and will wear him down and win the decision at the end of 15 rounds. I don't think Heenev has the punch to knock out Tunney, but he is apt to maul the champion up pretty badly before the final bell.

On the cold dope, Tunney should win because he has everything in a boxing line. Tunney's lead and counter is one of the best I've seen among present day boxers. Tunney could put up a whole of a fight if he would cut loose. He showed a flash of fighting heart in the Dempsey fight at Chicago after he was knocked down in the seventh round.

But Tunney doesn't seem to be interested in boxing. He's been reading too much philosophy. Shakespeare and Shaw are all right but they never helped a fighter beat an opponent.

I do not look for Tunney to be as good shape for this bout as he was at Philadelphia or Chicago. It is impossible for a boxer to keep in condition by fighting 2 bouts (20 rounds) in two years.

The last five rounds of the forthcoming bout will tell more on Tunney than they will on a regular fellow like Heenev who is used to going 20 rounds.

Once proficient in boxing does not mean that you will always be proficient. I know of no profession that requires more practice and work than the game of boxing. The art of boxing is hard to attain and easy to lose. Who knows but that Tunney out of the ring for almost a year has not lost part of his wonderful boxing skill?

I do not know as yet any particular blow that Heenev has that will give him any advantage in

GOLF

Golf is a form of work made expensive enough for a rich man to enjoy it. It is physical and mental exertion made attractive by the fact that you have to dress for it in a $200,000 club house.

Golf is what letter carrying, ditch digging and carpet beating would be if those three tasks had to be performed on the same hot afternoon in short pants and colored socks by gentlemen who required a different implement for every mood.

Twenty-five years ago there was but one golf club to a community. Today there is one to a block. This shows what can be done with a sport once you create the idea that two blackballs will be sufficient to keep a man out of it.

Golf is the simplest looking game in the world when you decide to take it up, and the toughest looking after you have been at it ten or twelve years.

It is probably the only game a man can play as long as a quarter of a century and then discover that it is too deep for him in the first place.

The game is played on carefully selected grass with little white balls and as many clubs as the player can afford. These balls cost from 75 cents to $2.50, and it is possible to support a family of ten people (all adults) for five months on the money represented by the balls lost by some golfers in a single afternoon.

A golf course has eighteen holes, seventeen of which are unnecessary and put in to make the game harder. A "hole" is a tin cup in the center of a "green." A "green" is a small parcel of grass costing about $1.98 a blade and usually situated between a brook, a couple of apple trees and a lot of unfinished excavations.

The idea is to get the golf ball from a given point to each of the eighteen cups in the fewest strokes and the greatest number of words. The silly thing about it all is that after you have been all afternoon poking the ball around the lot you find that the eighteenth hole is right in front of the club house from which you started.

The ball must not be thrown, pushed or carried. It must be propelled entirely by about $200 worth of curious looking implements, designed to provoke the owner.

Each implement has a specific purpose and ultimately some golfers get to know what that purpose is. They are exceptions.

After each hole has been completed the golfer counts his strokes. Then he subtracts six and says "Made that in five. That's one above par. Shall we play for 50 cents on the next hole, too, Ed?"

After the final or eighteenth hole the golfer adds up his score and stops when he has reached 87. He then has a swim, a pint of gin, suggests "Sweet Adeline" with six or eight other bars and calls it the end of a perfect day.

It's a great game. It must be great. It has put most of our middle aged men back into boy's clothing.

Sum marry in haste and then set down and think it careful over. Sum tank it over careful first and then set down and marry. Both ways are right, if they hit the mark.—Josh Billings.

Baseball

Yesterday's hero, Charley Root, Chicago Cubs pitcher, who gave the Boston Braves only five hits and enabled the Cubs to win, 4 to 1. It was Root's first victory in eight starts.

Ray Moss and Adolpho Luque pitched superb ball only to have the Brooklyn-Gincinnati game called in the ninth inning on account of rain. Neither team scored. Moss gave three hits and Luque six.

Henry Johnson and Wiley Moore, who relieved him, were both wild and Detroit won an easy game from the New York Yankees, 4 to 2.

George Uhle hurled ten steady innings and the Cleveland Indians evened the series with Washington by winning, 2 to 1.

Accumulating most of their hits in the sixth inning, the St. Louis Browns defeated Boston, 3 to 1. Crowder won his tenth game of the season.

Paul stopped the St. Louis Cardinals, slugging after three New York pushes failed. The Cards hit Eusebio Berra, Buckeye and Chaplin freely winning the five-inning game, 11 to 1.

The Chicago White Sox battled uphill in their first game with the Philadelphia Athletics and won out in the ninth 1 to 3. Ed Rommel held the Sox to six hits in the second game and the Athletics

Country's Youth Burns To Emulate Lindy, Byrd

But Hundreds Fail in Test Devised to Eliminate Unfit Applicants

By GRAHAM STEWART
International Illustrated News Staff Writer

WASHINGTON.—It used to be Frank Merrill and Fred Fearnot whom the average American youngster burned to imitate—that is, if he hadn't already given his allegiance to Buffalo Bill. But no longer. You can take the word of Brigadier General Benjamin D. Foulois that these old idols have tottered and fallen, forgotten before the glamor of the Lindberghs, the Chamberlains, the Byrds.

So many hundreds of letters are received by the War Department inquiring as to the qualifications for a successful pilot that air service officials have created an imaginary "perfect applicant." Even one of these would-be fliers is so to speak, stood back to back with the imaginary applicant to see how he measures up, and in scarcely one instance out of a hundred does he meet the test.

General Foulois is a strict enforcer of aeronautical timber, but his strictness arises from personal knowledge of the requirements. He himself is the first airplane pilot the army ever had. In 1909 the government decided that it ought to take note of the new science, and bought a solitary airplane for the army. General Foulois, then a young battalion officer, was taught to fly by Orville Wright.

The satisfactory air applicant, according to General Foulois, is between 20 and 28 years old. He is unmarried, and has both a well-balanced mind and a well-developed body, the two co-ordinated to a high degree. Previous experience in flying is not necessary, but the two must be quick to learn and retain

ATHLETIC CLUB OF N. Y. TO SEND OWN TEAM ABROAD

NEW YORK, July 13.—Rebelling against the decision of the Olympic selection committee, the New York Athletic club will pay the expenses of five athletes to Amsterdam and seek to have them placed on the United States team.

Roland Locke, sprinter; Weems

Baskin, hurdler; Earl Elkins, decathlon; Matt McGrath, hammer throw; and Norton Jackson, wrestler, will sail this week-end.

Matthew Halpin, chairman of the Winged Foot Athletic committee and a prominent member of the New York Athletic club, said the five men were considered the equal, and in some cases, the superior, of athletes who were placed on the Olympic team. Halpin also said he would decline to serve as an official at the Olympiad as a protest against the ruling which declared Charley Paddock an amateur.

SMOKERS' OPINIONS WANTED

Can a Good Cigar be Made to Sell for 5c?

We say it can. And we've got the cigar with which to prove it!—Havana Ribbon. Thirty years on the market; added experience behind it every year; production increasing by millions—that's why we're safe in saying there isn't another 5c cigar that's even a close second to Havana Ribbon. Best of all is the fact that Havana Ribbon contains no bitter under-ripe nor flat-tasting over-ripe tobacco. And no "cuttings" or short ends to crumble in your mouth. But only long, fragrant, flavorful, mellow-mild, fully-ripe middle leaves of choice tobacco plants. Can you imagine such a thing in a 5c cigar? Dig up a nickel and get the reality of it! You'll tie up to Havana Ribbon for good. And you'll fatten your savings bank account right smartly with the money its low price will save you. Sold singly, by the box and in Practical Pocket Packages of five. Everywhere.

THE WORLD HAS A NEW AND FINER MOTOR CAR

Salon Body Designs

The new Salon Body design for the new "400" series was developed after extended personal study by Mr. Nash himself of the latest creations by European body artists of international fame.

Original ideas in body artistry were co-ordinated with the most modern developments revealed in foreign and American Salons.

And the Salon Nash design is the perfected result—a new body type of the most modern beauty.

It could fittingly adorn a chassis priced at many thousands of dollars. Nash invested a fortune in dies and machinery to create it.

But you may avail yourself of it on a line of cars notably moderate in price.

In body design, as in other important features, Nash has again outstripped all competition.

The World has a new and finer motor car—with a radically new and finer type of body.

The regular session of Trinity Lutheran Brotherhood was held in the Parish House Thursday evening, with good attendance.

After the usual business was transacted, Harry W. Heffner and his committee served brick ice cream, Weaver and Johnson's famous homemade chocolate cake and lemonade.

The program was in charge of members of the Brotherhood who are students in Capital university with Hilgard Gehres as chairman. Gladden Troutman and Ervin Leist captained two teams that put on an observation test that proved exceptionally interesting and entertaining. Leist's team winning by a safe margin. The remaining part of the evening was taken up with other contests that furnished occasion for much merriment for both old and young.

ATTEND WEDDING OF NEPHEW

Judge and Mrs. I. N. Abernethy of Circleville were present Wednesday afternoon at the wedding of Mrs. Abernethy's nephew, Dr. Walter Sittler, to Miss Mary Catherine Cullumber, at St. Peter's Lutheran church at 4 o'clock.

While the guests assembled a charming program of pipe organ music was rendered by Mrs. Catherine Bonner Forquer using the numbers "At Dawning," "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life" and "Ave Marie." During the ceremony Mrs. Forquer softly played, "O Promise Me."

Mendelssohn's wedding march was softly played as the bridal party took their places at the altar which was beautiful with two seven branch candelabra holding lighted white tapers and tall wicker vases of delphinium, gladioli and fern and baskets of daisies.

The bride wore a white taffeta frock fashioned with short sleeves a tight bodice and full skirt with an uneven scalloped hemline. White hose and pumps and a garden hat of white hair braid completed the costume. The bridal bouquet of Killarney rosebuds, valley lilies and Swansonia in a shower was tied with white satin ribbons and valley lilies.

Dr. Sittler is the oldest son of Rev. and Mrs. Joseph Sittler of Mulberry Hill, Lancaster, and is a graduate of Lancaster high school, Wittenberg and Ohio State university where he received his M. D. degree. He is now a practicing physician in Chicago. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa Fraternity.

Out-of-town guests present were: Mrs. Bradford BeVere and Misses Wealtha and Mary BeVere of Upper Arlington; Dr. Earl Blair of Chicago; Mrs. William Melke of nethyXenia; Dr. and Mrs. Charles Rauch of Logan and Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Sexauer of Ashville.

Misses Margaret and Anna Ryan will leave Saturday for Lakeside on Indian Lake, to be the guests of Miss Mary Vieth, who has a cottage there. Miss Margaret Ryan will remain over Sunday and her sister will spend a week's vacation on the lake.

LUNCHEON-BRIDGE FOR MISS ROONEY

The luncheon-bridge to which Miss Mildred and Miss Frances Mason were hostesses Thursday at 1 o'clock, was an affair of unusual charm with effective decorations of large baskets of striking hydrangeas throughout the house.

The 40 guests were served at small tables on which novel place cards and nut cups were a part of the color scheme. The center flower holders were square boxes covered with medallions of paper in two shades of green. These artistic holders were filled with honeysuckle and coreopsis which were of two shades of yellow.

The ten tables had been placed in three large front rooms at the Mason home, so that everyone was cool and uncrowded, which added a great deal to the pleasure of the afternoon.

Miss Nelle Rooney of Columbus, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Rooney of E. Union-st. was the guest of honor. Her marriage to Mr. Edwin Tingley, attorney of Columbus will be an event of the early fall.

Other guests from Columbus were: Mrs. Everett Lumpe, Mrs. J. J. McKinnon, Miss Alicia Rooney, Mrs. Sam Moffitt, Miss Catherine McLean, Mrs. C. L. Hott and Miss Edith Vance. Mrs. Lester Huske and Mrs. Arnold Jenkinson were from Lancaster and Mrs. Collis Young was from Lima. Miss
